

THE MARION DAILY STAR.

VOL. XIV. NO. 30

MARION, OHIO, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1890.

PRICE 3 CENTS.

'NEATH NORTHERN SKIES

SOUTHERN BEAUTIES BLOOM AS GLO-RIOUSLY AS IN DIXIE'S LAND.

Fair Residents of New York Who First Saw the Light in the Cotton States.
Their Charms and Talents Graphically Described.

(Copyright by American Press Association.)

MRS. PAGE BROWN.

Southern women have a wide reputation for personal charms. These charms are generally accompanied by pleasing characteristics of mind and manners. This is the case notably with the fair natives of Dixie who have in recent years become residents of New York city.

Mrs. Page Brown, formerly Lucy Pryor, is the second daughter of Gen. Roger A. Pryor, one of the judges of the court of common pleas. Gen. and Mrs. Pryor sought New York twenty-five years ago and there began life anew after the tumult of the war. Mr. and Mrs. Page Brown are residing temporarily in San Francisco, where the former is superintending the construction of a mansion for Mr. Crocker. Mrs. Brown attracted much attention at Monterey while a visitor there last summer, her sweetnes of manner being particularly commented upon.

ance she made during a tour around the world. She has become so enamored of foreign life that it is pretty well decided she will remain abroad for the present. She has taken lodgings in London and set up a little establishment of her own, conducting much of social duty in addition to her literary work. She is writing a serial story and contributes frequently to periodicals. She is planning to go to the South of France at an early day, as the climate of London affects her throat. Miss Bland was born on a plantation in Mississippi and began newspaper work in New Orleans. Her relatives on her mother's side are from New England.

Mrs. Peyton C. Richards, formerly Florence Carter, is a young matron of handsome features. She was born in New Orleans, and was a belle before her marriage. Although her father and mother live in Louisiana, her ancestors were natives of Kentucky and Virginia. Her maternal grandfather, Governor Suelly, was the first governor of Kentucky and served many years in the diplomatic corps, being minister at different times to several foreign countries. Her father is descended from the Carters, of Cartersville, and Lewis, of Virginia.

Mrs. Collins, wife of Gen. Charles H. T. Collins, was before her marriage Miss Septima Maria Levy, of Charleston, S. C. Her father, David C. Levy, removed to Philadelphia, and it was in that city during the war that Mrs. Levy became the wife of Capt. Collins, of the Union army, who afterward attained the rank of major general. She speaks a number of modern languages fluently. Of late years Mrs. Collins has devoted much time to literary pursuits, one of her books, "A Woman's War Record," being a fascinating narrative of three years spent with her husband in camp. She shows her Spanish origin in her features, which are of the Castilian type. She has large, brown, black eyes and a rich olive complexion.

Mrs. John Claffin, formerly Miss Bessie Stewart, of Louisville, is one of the most strikingly beautiful women in New York. A romantic story is told of her first marriage, which occurred five or six years ago. Mr. Dunn, a member of the firm of H. B. Claffin & Co., during a visit to Louisville, chanced to visit a shop there when Miss Stewart walked in to make a purchase. She attracted his attention at once, and he did not leave town until he had made her acquaintance. She had many suitors, but Mr. Dunn marched in and carried off the

Mrs. D. S. Gregory, the daughter of John W. Murray, of Washington, is one of seventeen children, all handsome. She is a very positive blonde.

MRS. SEPTIMA M. COLLINS.

Mrs. Murray, the wife of a Wall street broker, was Miss Nellie Ross, of Mobile. She spends her winters in the south and summers on Long Island.

Mrs. John C. Calhoun, wife of a descendant of one of the most distinguished men of the south, was born in Mississippi.

FLORENCE C. IVES.

HIS BATTLES NOW ARE O'ER.

The Record of the Late Maj. Gen. Terry as a Soldier.

Maj. Gen. Alfred Howe Terry (retired), whose death is announced, will doubtless go into history as the true "Hero of Fort Fisher." When the first attempt to capture that stronghold had failed, and the usual despondency resulted, Gen. Grant quietly resolved, as he says, to select a commander of great experience and quick intelligence to try it again. His choice fell on Gen. Terry, and the relation of how the work was done is among the brightest chapters of American history. The subsequent dispute as to precedence in date of commissions does not make such prompt reading, but in the end justice was done.

It adds not a little to the brilliancy of Gen. Terry's achievement that he was a lawyer and, as generally supposed, with very little military knowledge. Yet he was by nature a soldier, volunteered under the first call and rose rapidly in rank. He was born Nov. 14, 1827, at Hartford, Conn., was educated in New Haven and graduated from the Yale law school. In the militia he served some time as colonel of the Second Connecticut infantry; he left it to the front, and did heroic work at Bull Run. In September, 1861, he became colonel of the Seventh Connecticut, and with it bore an honorable part in the operations on the South Carolina coast.

In April, 1862, he was made brigadier general of volunteers, and for over two years longer served on the coast. Aug. 24, 1864, he was brevetted a major general, and after dashing achievements elsewhere two commissions came to him on Jan. 15, 1865. One made him a brigadier in the regular army, the other a provisional major general of volunteers. On March 3, 1866, President Cleveland gave him army rank next to that of Hancock.

Late in 1864 Gen. Terry's command was transferred to the Army of the Potowmack and bore an active part to the close. His subsequent career as an Indian fighter is well known. Died at the residence of his sister in New Haven.

A New Opera by Verdi.

It recently became known that Verdi, the celebrated composer of "Aida," has in his old age undertaken a task that will either add to his fame or emphasize the close of his career. Of this event, important to every lover of music, an Italian correspondent writes that not a soul, with the exception of Boito, the author of the libretto, and nine Verdi knew that the great master was composing a new opera. In order to avoid all suspicion Verdi who has always written his operas as a special painter provided for him by the musical publisher Ricordi, has been writing his score on common music paper bought here and there. A few days ago Verdi, who was in Milan, was staying at the Hotel Milano, had invited to dinner Boito, singer Rosati, his wife and daughter. Verdi was in very good humor and told lots of amusing stories. Toward the end of the dinner Boito raised his champagne glass and said, "To the health of 'Falstaff.' " Of course none of the guests understood the meaning of the toast. Mine Rosati was the first to guess what it meant, and before either was over Verdi had told the secret. The part of Falstaff is written for a baritone, the personages of the score are very numerous, but the choruses few.

The Millionaire Question.

A writer in a Boston magazine has proposed a question which has at least the merit of originality. In replying to the query, "What shall we do with the millionaires?" he suggests that society stop pressuring the rich man and limiting after-tax deductions and mortgages and instead force him to pay twice on the inheritance tax. He also suggests an enemy tax on the rich. His opinion as to the ethics and proprieties of wealth was that the wealthy, who disregard their responsibilities, are an enemy to society. We think the poor to be the best people in the nation, but we do not believe they can pay twice a single cent in taxes. Here is an opportunity for a millionaire to profit by his services. We will allow him the privilege of giving the city its share from the south.

Mrs. Herbert S. Carpenter has a tall, graceful figure which the single word "willowy" best describes. She was Miss Cora Anderson of Louisville and half a dozen years ago went to New York to study for the stage. She had hardly settled herself in the city of New York when she met for preparatory work with Mr. Carpenter, a Wall street broker. His attentions caused her to give up her theatrical career, and before six months had passed she returned to Louisville to arrange for her marriage, which took place soon after.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bland is among the noted southern women who have come to New York. Her talents as a writer have enticed her to literary circles, and as she has many personal attractions for social success is immediate. And though it is much above me to judge her, she has beauty and stateliness which have won the appearance of being rather than the name. She left New York last spring for a tour in the south.

MRS. HERBERT S. CARPENTER.

Now that I wish to say that the efforts of that general, in covering up the fact that contractors spelled it badly. On the contrary, they were famous for precision. Yet it sometimes occurred, in a moment of absurd inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

Copyright by American Press Association.)

scut inattention, not to say that "she missed a word and "one" spelled it correctly. That is as applied to the alphabet in every sense. How could I understand how could a student, her grammar, etc., that it was not necessary to attend a spelling school and to learn, unlimbering the tongue, the art of large words and I might add, in the art of pronouncing and pronouncing words.

BARGAINS

Lots!

CLOSING-OUT SALE!

OF LADIES' AND GENTLEMEN'S

CLOAKS.

The balance of our Plush and Cloth Wraps must and will be closed out at some price. We have some elegant

Plush Sacques and Jackets

Left, which will be closed out at a sacrifice. Fine

Home-Made Blankets

In White, Red and Gray, we are selling very low. See our Black Fur Muff, at 50 Cents.

SEFFNER BROS.,

MASONIC BLOCK,

EAST CENTER STREET.

CAUTION W. L. DOUGLAS SHOE CO.

has his name and office stamped on bottom of all his shoes.

5.00 $3.00 $2.00

$4.00 $2.50 $1.75

$3.50 $2.25 $1.25

$2.50 $2.00 $1.75

$2.25 $2.00 $1.75

$2.00 $2.00 $1.75

GENTLEMAN MISS

FOR LADIES FOR BOYS

FOR BOYS FOR LADIES

FOR LADIES FOR BOYS

FOR BOYS FOR LADIES

MARION, O., Dec. 25, '90.

Dear Santa Claus:—Owing to the rush for the holiday presents which you sent me I am unable to reply to your letter in full. Following your instructions I am selling at the lowest prices all the goods you sent me—

Suits, Overcoats, Hats, Caps, Fur Caps, Silk Handkerchiefs, Cambric Handkerchiefs, Cotton Handkerchiefs, Linen Handkerchiefs, Paper Collars, Diamonds, Boys' Wrist Bands, Boys' Knit Bands, Girls' Plain Suspenders, Fancy Suspender Belts, Boys' Knit Bands, Plain White Shirts, Fancy White Shirts, Silk Mufflers, Cotton Mufflers, Kid Gloves, Cloth Gloves, Cashmere Gloves, Leather Gloves, Cloth Mitts, Leather Mitts, Cashmere Mitts, Kid Mitts, Cashmere wear, Collar Buttons, Cashmere Buttons, Hand Gloves.

All of which are disappearing rapidly. Thanking you for your favor and hoping to return same, I remain,

Yours Respectfully,
SAM OPPENHEIMER,

Strictly One-Price Clothier,

Bennett Building.

COAL!

AT LOW PRICES
L.B. GURLEY'S.
OFFICE, NORTH OF JAIL.
TELEPHONE, NO. 67.

FOR RENT—South half of the Holm property, on North Main street, at $5 per month to good paying tenant. 44-ft. Geo. D. COPELAND.

FOR RENT—House of five nice rooms, good well and also good barn. Inquire at 138 Oak street.

FOR RENT—Two six-room dwelling houses on Jefferson street. Inquire at 177 Jefferson street. 25-ft. GEORGE ACKERMAN.

FOR RENT—House of four room, central location, price $8.50; also 1 room 2d floor, 22 east Center street, $2.50. 25-ft. J. G. LEFFLER.

The Grocer.

FOR SALE OR RENT—House on Elm street; well, clean, summer kitchen and all conveniences. Apply to Frank G. Bender, 126 north Main street.

FOR EXCHANGE—45 acre farm for Marion property. For information inquire at N. Mezger's store.

LOST—Pocket medicine case. A suitable reward will be paid if left at Headley's drug store or his office. J. T. MARTIN, M. D.

WANTED—A lady to learn photography. Only one that means busines need apply. At Vail's gallery. It.

WANTED—Letter copying press. Must be good and cheap. Address C. L. G. Box 747, City.

Turney's time.

Cunningham, the plumber.

For pure drugs and medicines go to Foye's.

Fresh home-made candy, cheap, at Coffy & Stone's.

Have you tried our bread? 28-65 J. W. THOM.

Nice sweet potatoes.

28-13 Coffy & Stone.

Fine home made candy.

24-61 J. W. THOM.

Fancy eating and cooking apples.

28-15 J. W. THOM.

Remember Foye is getting in a new lot of fine plush cases, and at bottom prices.

Take a look at the holiday goods at W. A. Sellers & Co. since the cut in prices.

New nuts, raisins, figs, dates, Malaga grapes and Florida oranges at Coffy & Stone's.

The Free Baptist church election occurs next Monday, Dec. 26. Let all members be present.

The heavy holiday business at passenger traffic belated trains Wednesday and Thursday.

Holiday goods must be sold. We will offer our full line of holiday goods at reduced prices.

W. A. SELLERS & CO.

We have a large line of plush albums, toilet cases, etc., that we will sell regardless of cost until Jan. 1st.

27-11 W. A. SELLERS & CO.

A pleasant time was had at the residence of Charles Anderson on the hill, Thursday evening. Dancing and games were indulged in and were enjoyed by all.

New cotton 25¢ per pound, new orange and lemon peel 18¢ per pound, English currants 75¢ per pound, 5 boxes sardines for 25¢, at 28-14 Coffy & Stone's.

Diaries.

Peloubet's S. S. Note.

Blank Book.

Office Supplies.

Stationery, Inks.

Miscellany.

FOR 1891

Complete Stock

Lowest Prices, at

C. G. WIANT'S.

Horse Breeders' Meeting (Last News)

A number of the horse fanciers of the state, among whom were the names of A. H. King, former president citizens of Marion, called a meeting at the City Hall, Marion, on Wednesday, Jan. 14, at which time an organization known as the Ohio Horse Breeders' Association was formed. This date and place has been selected because during the State Agricultural Association Convention and Stock Breeding meeting to be held in Marion, the relation of the Trotting Horse, Agricultural and Business and the Trotting Horse for the Farmer and how to Breed Him will be read and discussed. Special rail rates have been secured, and all breeders are cordially invited.

An Estate Married.

Not a Marion editor dare venture that affairs and elegant little girls, may well be the real editorial news, on the Upper Sandusky Union. Mrs. Frank E. Johnson, Mr. Johnson was married Wednesday evening, Dec. 24, to Miss Anna Dennis, at the residence in Upper Sandusky. Both contracting parties are highly esteemed and popularly known in Marion. Mr. Johnson became an especially favorite when he managed the famous Marion polo matches, though he has always been a favorite for his versatility on the stage. His earnestness as an editor and his claim of personality.

I've seen joins the many friends of both contracting parties, among others being present. Among those present from away were Mr. Frederick Pontius, of Lawrence, Kansas, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wildersmith, Mrs. Jennie Miller, and Master Clarence Miller, of Lancaster, Ohio. May happiness attend, Starry Christmas Marriage.

P. W. Holzendorf, an estimable citizen of Marion county, and Miss Marcella Brant, the highly esteemed daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Brant, old and respected residents of Fairfield county, this state, were married by Rev. J. Heilly on Dec. 23, 1890, arriving in Marion on the 24th. They were pleasantly welcomed at the home of Mr. Holzendorf by Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Smith, the near relatives of the contracting parties, among others being present. Among those present from away were Mr. Frederick Pontius, of Lawrence, Kansas, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wildersmith, Mrs. Jennie Miller, and Master Clarence Miller, of Lancaster, Ohio. May happiness attend,

Thanks Said Was Right.

(Upper Sandusky Union.) We sometimes think that Sam Hume, the illiterate, eccentric cuss, who edited a daily paper at Marion, was about right, when he said: "It took less brains to edit a newspaper than to conduct or manage any other business."

Some day, maybe, Hume will have a monument for uttering these words, and, as the ages wear away, reflect some of the lustre attending the famous historian of that name.

In the meantime, however, Sam will attend all the county fairs, and sell peanuts and mock jewelry from the same old stand, such is life.

Col. De Voe's Valuable Collection.

Col. Thomas F. De Voe, an octogenarian of New York City, has probably the most valuable collection of printed and manuscript information regarding the history of Manhattan Island now extant. Early in life he developed the habits of a collector, and through succeeding years filled any number of large scrap books with newspaper clippings about local events, classified under appropriate headings. He also purchased every book relating to affairs in Gotham which came under his notice and likewise paid intelligent attention to original documents. Now he is the owner of a great mass of material of the most valuable sort, which will perhaps some day prove priceless with to a historian.

Almanac Notice.

There will be a meeting of the Marion County Farmers' Alliance, at the public square in Marion, on Saturday, December 28th, at 2 o'clock p.m., for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing term and to transact other business necessary for the government of the organization. A full attendance of delegates of the various agricultural societies in the county is expected.

W. H. Parkinson, of the Caton Business College of Buffalo, came home to spend a holiday vacation with his parents. Clayton Dix, a student at the college, came home at the same time.

The boys at the Big Four office presented Agent Poole with an elegant silver chart on Christmas morning. They couldn't have thought of anything more appropriate and the reception was so pleased that ours were as quickly as rate trains.

—so many large crayon pictures of the New York turned out this fall and winter are more striking and brilliant than ever displayed in any of the fair. A. S. Johnson, of Johnson's Drug Store, is the author of the drawings and Mr. Van der Valk, of the Art School, has given him a reputation for that kind of work. Examining the work before the public, he will be pleased with any one.

The police department was called out to assist in removing a man who had dropped dead in the rear of a car. The police officer who was on duty at the time of the accident was John W. Thompson, who was on duty at the time of the accident.

—Mrs. W. B. Vorhees and son Fred, of Ada, are guests of Mrs. Vorhees' parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

Miss Hare, the popular dancer of Newark, was up with her family and spent Christmas with Wm. and Jennie Martin, Mrs. Martin's parents, at St. Mary's.

Charles Walters, a young boy residing in Marion for the past year, is spending his holidays at home with his parents here.

—Adaline Scott, the ever pleasant, but ever tearful girl, spent Christmas at Plymouth, where she was by Mrs. Bowles.

—Mrs. W. B. Vorhees and son Fred, of Ada, are guests of Mrs. Vorhees' parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Mrs. S. P. Myers, of Carey, and Mrs. Charles McLean, of Marion, are the parents of Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Postmaster is to go to work on three of their interesting collections, were over in Columbus, and came back to Marion with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, his passengers, on fast Center street.

—The Standard was very popular with the public last Saturday evening. It was a great success, and the audience was greatly interested in the patriotic character of the address of Miss Jessie, who sang a solo.

—Mrs. S. P. Myers, of Carey, and Mrs. Charles McLean, of Marion, are the parents of Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Postmaster is to go to work on three of their interesting collections, were over in Columbus, and came back to Marion with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, his passengers, on fast Center street.

—The Standard was very popular with the public last Saturday evening. It was a great success, and the audience was greatly interested in the patriotic character of the address of Miss Jessie, who sang a solo.

—Mrs. S. P. Myers, of Carey, and Mrs. Charles McLean, of Marion, are the parents of Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Postmaster is to go to work on three of their interesting collections, were over in Columbus, and came back to Marion with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, his passengers, on fast Center street.

—The Standard was very popular with the public last Saturday evening. It was a great success, and the audience was greatly interested in the patriotic character of the address of Miss Jessie, who sang a solo.

—Mrs. S. P. Myers, of Carey, and Mrs. Charles McLean, of Marion, are the parents of Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Postmaster is to go to work on three of their interesting collections, were over in Columbus, and came back to Marion with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, his passengers, on fast Center street.

—The Standard was very popular with the public last Saturday evening. It was a great success, and the audience was greatly interested in the patriotic character of the address of Miss Jessie, who sang a solo.

—Mrs. S. P. Myers, of Carey, and Mrs. Charles McLean, of Marion, are the parents of Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Postmaster is to go to work on three of their interesting collections, were over in Columbus, and came back to Marion with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, his passengers, on fast Center street.

—The Standard was very popular with the public last Saturday evening. It was a great success, and the audience was greatly interested in the patriotic character of the address of Miss Jessie, who sang a solo.

—Mrs. S. P. Myers, of Carey, and Mrs. Charles McLean, of Marion, are the parents of Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Postmaster is to go to work on three of their interesting collections, were over in Columbus, and came back to Marion with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, his passengers, on fast Center street.

—The Standard was very popular with the public last Saturday evening. It was a great success, and the audience was greatly interested in the patriotic character of the address of Miss Jessie, who sang a solo.

—Mrs. S. P. Myers, of Carey, and Mrs. Charles McLean, of Marion, are the parents of Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Postmaster is to go to work on three of their interesting collections, were over in Columbus, and came back to Marion with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, his passengers, on fast Center street.

—The Standard was very popular with the public last Saturday evening. It was a great success, and the audience was greatly interested in the patriotic character of the address of Miss Jessie, who sang a solo.

—Mrs. S. P. Myers, of Carey, and Mrs. Charles McLean, of Marion, are the parents of Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Postmaster is to go to work on three of their interesting collections, were over in Columbus, and came back to Marion with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, his passengers, on fast Center street.

—The Standard was very popular with the public last Saturday evening. It was a great success, and the audience was greatly interested in the patriotic character of the address of Miss Jessie, who sang a solo.

—Mrs. S. P. Myers, of Carey, and Mrs. Charles McLean, of Marion, are the parents of Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Postmaster is to go to work on three of their interesting collections, were over in Columbus, and came back to Marion with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, his passengers, on fast Center street.

—The Standard was very popular with the public last Saturday evening. It was a great success, and the audience was greatly interested in the patriotic character of the address of Miss Jessie, who sang a solo.

—Mrs. S. P. Myers, of Carey, and Mrs. Charles McLean, of Marion, are the parents of Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Postmaster is to go to work on three of their interesting collections, were over in Columbus, and came back to Marion with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, his passengers, on fast Center street.

—The Standard was very popular with the public last Saturday evening. It was a great success, and the audience was greatly interested in the patriotic character of the address of Miss Jessie, who sang a solo.

—Mrs. S. P. Myers, of Carey, and Mrs. Charles McLean, of Marion, are the parents of Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Postmaster is to go to work on three of their interesting collections, were over in Columbus, and came back to Marion with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, his passengers, on fast Center street.

—The Standard was very popular with the public last Saturday evening. It was a great success, and the audience was greatly interested in the patriotic character of the address of Miss Jessie, who sang a solo.

—Mrs. S. P. Myers, of Carey, and Mrs. Charles McLean, of Marion, are the parents of Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Postmaster is to go to work on three of their interesting collections, were over in Columbus, and came back to Marion with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, his passengers, on fast Center street.

—The Standard was very popular with the public last Saturday evening. It was a great success, and the audience was greatly interested in the patriotic character of the address of Miss Jessie, who sang a solo.

—Mrs. S. P. Myers, of Carey, and Mrs. Charles McLean, of Marion, are the parents of Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Postmaster is to go to work on three of their interesting collections, were over in Columbus, and came back to Marion with Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, his passengers, on fast Center street.

—The Standard was very popular with the public last Saturday evening. It was a great success, and the audience was greatly interested in the patriotic character of the address of Miss Jessie, who sang a solo.

—Mrs. S. P. Myers, of Carey, and Mrs. Charles McLean, of Marion, are the parents of Mrs. M. Nelson, in their fast street.

—Postmaster is to go to work on three of their interesting collections, were over in Columbus, and came back